THE RELAY CAMP CHRIS. CORNER AT GOULDING REPLIES EXPIRES IN GERMANY

Answers Queries Propounded By Cable Received Yesterday by Capt. Escambia and Tells of Joyous Life in Camp.

Special to The Journal.

Goulding Camp, Oct. 11.—In reply to the communication from your Escambia correspondent dated Oct. 10, will say that we are glad indeed to again hear from them. We have been wondering for some time what had become of the talented gentleman and are pleased to note that such a great reformation has been brought about among the boys.

Yes we would have enjoyed very much those sacred songs sang by your excellent choir. We do not question in the least, the animating harmony of the sweet strains of the violin together with the soft and flexible voices of those composing the choir—we know all these voices, they are thrilling.

Big Drew is still with us and as usual giving strict attention to his duties as master of trains, is still holding his job, does not try to cover more ground than he stands upon, and is getting the co-operation of all of the boys and the gratifying commendation of the company.

Jimmie G. is with us to stay, but his songs are somewhat different to that of Don't put me in the Bay, but do not care to mention them at this writing.

Court Dispensed With.

Our court is dispensed with altogether. The last session was held with Judge Johnson presiding and Capt. Ed. Ambrose as prosecuting attorney. Deputy Sheriff Smith of Cottage Hill was down and gave the court some very good assistance in maintaining order. The defendants before the court were, A. F. Davis, F. F. Williams, James Gardner and James Fleming. The charges were all for minor offenses. Two were found guilty and two acquitted.

The commitment under sentence of the court was very severe and was applied by a committee appointed by the court. This was a precedent by which the boys are governed accordingly. Hence the suspension of the court. Our lawyers are now laid and will be glad to give their services to any of the boys who may be so unfortunate as to need them.

As to all other small mentionings by the correspondent, we will not make any reply, as our communication for this time is somewhat voluminous without them.

Davis Kidnapped.

Flagman Davis has been kidnapped, or disappeared in a very mysterious way, leaving nothing that will give anything as to his whereabouts, or as a souvenir except a very nice bouquet which was given him by some one up the road. Mr. Fleming knows who and says that he is next and fails him to it and values it very highly.

Our generous mail clerk Mr. Fortner has found some attraction up the road, Jimmie Fleming knows. They both stopped off No. 1 last Sunday near Roberts. We do not think they were hunting chickens either. They came in on No. 19 Monday morning, but did not say how they were traveling when they started but they were somewhat damp when they got in.

Messrs. Fleming, Lindsey, Corley and Fortner are contemplating an invitation to an entertainment now soon, to be given by some of the fair sex of Brent.

Conductor Connor is now with us making his run on 19 and 18. Mr. Floyd Williams has left us, going to Escambia, as boarding master. We all wish Floyd much success.

High Living. In our last communication we failed to state that the banquet given at the reception hall out at the dormitory was given by Conductor Hahn and Flagman Williams. The luncheon given at the camp on Sunday last was a marked success. Master of Trains Gonzalez and Nephew Eric came out and dined with us.

Conductor Long presented us with some nice coconut cake on last Saturday which was sent him by Mrs. Long who is spending a while with relatives at Century.

Last Sunday afternoon was very pleasantly spent in eating chocolate cake and ice cream. We are indebted to Engineer Holston for the cake which was sent him by Mrs. Holston of Selma, and for the cream furnished by our B. Master E. E. Johnston.

Conductor Joe Horne also presented us with some nice jelly cake sent him by Mrs. Horne. We are very grateful to these good ladies for the good things as such are a rarity to us, and of course we do not care how many they send.

Hoping that we may have an early

Capt. Chris. Corner, who had resided in Pensacola or many years, expired in Germany Tuesday night, a cable announcing his death being received yesterday by Captain Jacob Kryger.

The cable was from Stuttgart, and was from W. J. Corner, a son of the deceased, who left here recently for Germany to be at the bedside of his father. He had hardly reached there before Captain Corner expired.

The deceased left here about two months since to pay a visit to relatives in Germany. He had been in bad health for some time, and it was believed that the trip would benefit him. Several weeks ago, however, he was taken ill, and continued to grow worse each day. His condition was such that he soon left here recently to be with him.

The cable received yesterday stated that the body would be brought to Pensacola for interment, and it is presumed that it will be sent on the first steamer.

Captain Corner owned considerable real estate in Pensacola, especially on Palafox street. He was considered wealthy, and had retired from business.

His many friends will regret to learn of his death.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists.

Reform That Was Too Thorough.

Old Lady Colburn was giving her granddaughter some good advice the week before her wedding. "Now it's all very fine for you to have these plans for making John over—if he needs it," said the old lady. "He may have some ideas about reforming a few little habits of yours, my dear—but you don't want to go too far, either of you."

"When I was a girl somebody told me the story of a young woman who made the young man she married promise her he would have nothing to do with smoking. Well, that was all right enough, but he'd never been an intemperate smoker, and he missed the little soothing he'd been accustomed to get from his pipe once in a while."

"But if ever she saw him looking at it she'd remind him. You promised me never to have anything to do with pipes or smoking when we were married."

"Then one day the kitchen stove acted like all possessed—filled the room full of smoke. She said she thought the stovepipe needed cleaning, but he was kind of stubborn, same as most men are at times—he just sat there and said, 'I promised you when we were married never to have anything to do with pipes or smoking, and this comes under both heads.'"

"And she had to go for the stove man herself, though he was a real considerate man, most ways, her husband was. You just bear in mind that little circumstance when you're making John over."

Human Horns.
In the anatomical museum of the Edinburgh university four horns are preserved which had grown upon human heads. One of these is about seven inches long, as thick as the little finger and crooked in shape. A label attached to it bears this inscription: "This horn was cut by Arthur Temple, surgeon, out of the head of Elizabeth Low, being three inches above the right ear, before witnesses, the 14th of May, 1671. It was a growing seven years. Her age is fifty years."

The three other human horns also graced the heads of ladies. In Sir Robert Sibbald's "History of Fife" a curious book published about the beginning of the eighteenth century, we read: "A person of quality, a lady of great age in this shire, had a horn growing out of her toe and put her from walking. It was cut off by Dr. H. and she was freed of pain and walked."

A Collection of Idiots.
"I want to ask for the hand of your daughter in marriage," said the young man.
"You're an idiot," said the irate father.
"I know it. But I didn't suppose you'd object to another one in the family!"—Yonkers Statesman.
